

About the Major

Improving the lives of at-risk populations. Promoting diversity. Advancing social justice.

These are hallmark efforts of the social work department. Where we emphasize the inseparable ideals of service and study. Where we teach you about the social issues of the world so you can help better the world. For 40 years, graduates of our program have gained employment as clinical counselors, child welfare advocates, social policy developers, and program directors — among many other professions. They know what it means to “do good and do well.”

Notes: 1) SWK 101, 220, 253, 254 should be fulfilled before junior year. 2) Graduate programs in social work want students to have a course in statistics before beginning advanced standing studies. 3) Students interested in study abroad, may do so in the second semester of the junior year. Students should notify the chair or academic advisor of their consideration of foreign study by the end of their freshman year, or at the latest by the very beginning of the sophomore year, so that course scheduling can be adjusted. 4) Students entering PC with two to three years of a foreign language, particularly Spanish, are strongly encouraged to continue their language study.
